

Much Damage Runaway Is In California Very Exciting

"Tremendous damage has been done by the cold weather in California," said C. D. Lufkin yesterday. "The orange crop loss alone is about $25,000,000, and then the sum of $15,000,000 for cases, and $10,000,000 for freight must also be put down as a loss."

"Young trees have been killed altogether, and older ones have been damaged. It is a bad knock to the orange growers."

Mr. Lufkin states that there is no worry to speak of regarding the change in Administration in the United States. He says that although there may be tariff changes, nothing very radical will be done.

"The note is optimistic, and there is no worry about what the new President may do," concluded the returned banker.

There was an exciting runaway yesterday morning and, for a time, it appeared as if the driver of the team must meet with serious injury. The affair started on the upper end of Vineyard street, and it was a two-horse wagon that got away on the jump when the animals became frightened.

The driver did not know much about applying brakes, and the team soon had things their own way. The horses became more frightened as the wagon attained speed, and when the corner of Vineyard and Market streets was reached, there was a very exciting and dangerous minute or so. The driver had lost control of his team and, as the wagon swung into Market street, one animal fell to his knees. That dragged the other horse along, and the whole shooting match just missed striking a hack that was standing on the street.

There was a moment of suspense, as everybody thought the driver of the wagon would be hurled to his death. He, however, stuck to his perch and escaped injury. One horse was slightly scratched and there was no damage to the wagon. The escape from serious accident was almost a miracle and the spectators could hardly believe that no one was killed or maimed.
